HOUSE BLOCKS LEAGUE EFFORT ON ACCOUNTANTS

Rejects Resolution to Bring Members of Company Staff Before Body

DEBATE WAXES WARM

Independents Charge Effort to Smother; League Charges Prejudiced Report

By a vote of 57 to 54, the largest majority given the independents on any question to date, the house Friday afternoon killed the resolution introduced by Representative Miller of Bottineau, calling for the presence of the accountants making the audit for the state board of auditors at the time the report of Bishop, Brissman & Co. was reported.

This resolution was the same as that introduced in the senate by Senator Leiderbach, and passed by that body. It was introduced by the Nonpartisans following the passage yesterday of the resolution ordering the accountants to make their report direct to the House.

During the debate Speaker Twitchell read a message from Bishop Brissman & Co., St. Paul, to Chief Clerk Dawson, as follows: 'Order of house received and will be complied with."

Asks Committee Reference

Representative Miller moved the adoption of the resolution. Representative Kelly of Logan-McIntosh, independent, moved that it be referred to the state affairs committee.

In response to a request for explanation of the purpose of the resolution, Mr. Miller said:

"The resolution is similar to the one passed yesterday. The part which has been added provides—"

Mr. Kelly jumped to his feet and said that what he was interested in knowing what was going on as soon as possible, to which Mr. Miller replied with a reiteration of his statement that the only difference was that it would have the auditors.

At this stage of the discussion Speaker Twitchell called Representative Shipley of Stark, to the chair.

Mr. Twitchell charged that he had information that steps were being taken to prevent the submission of the audit report to the house and that the resolution was merely a move to block the submission of the report to the house.

"It is ridiculous," he said, "to think of bringing twenty five or thirty people here with the report. We can call for as many people as we want after we get the report.

To Bar No One

"We are going to bar no one. But the purpose of the gentleman behind the resolution is to keep us from getting the report. He has no right to tell Bishop, Brissman & Co. to bring twenty-five or thirty men here. If you pass a resolution of this kind you are going to make such a damn fool of the legislature that the people down there will not pay any attention to our message."

Sherman of Kidder, protested, declaring he did not want the report. Mr. Twitchell questioned him as to whether he thought he would get the report if he demanded that the company bring twenty or thirty men here.

"Wait until I get through," Mr. Sherman replied. "I don't know how many were engaged. I know that in small matters directors have often called officials who made the audit before them. The report will contain things the average layman cannot understand."

Mr. Twitchell rose to speak but was interrupted by two Nonpartisans jumping to the floor to the point of order that he had spoken three times. Mr. Twitchell agreed and sat down, but Maddock of Mountrail, asked unanimous consent of the house for him to continue, which request was quickly seconded by another Nonpartisan leader, Dell Patterson.

"We will get the gentlemen we want when the time comes," asserted the speaker. "The amendment calls not only for the auditors but all state employees connected with the audit. Any of these persons we may want we have the right to send the sargent-at-arms after whenever we desire."

Takes Exception

"Kitchen of Golden Valley took exception to the insinuation, he said, that the farmers were unable to form a judgment from the report which would be presented. He said he had taken a course in commercial accounting and he was certain there were twenty more in the house who could analyze it better than he.

It was at this point in the discussion that Speaker Twitchell who had taken the chair, read the telegram.

Larkin of Eddy, Nonpartisan, protested that he was an accountant but that he didn't feel confident to pass on the report.

The resolution, declared Mr. Patterson, again addressing the chair, is one relating to one of the most important movements in the United States. This industrial movement is one of the greatest ever started in this country.

Maddock's View

Maddock of Mountrail, urged that ninety per cent of the members of the house, he would say, and ninety-nine per cent of the people of the state wanted the information contained in the audit. The house, he maintained, "was not making a 'darn' or something else fool of itself today but had done that yesterday. He called on Speaker Twitchell to furnish information on which he based his charge that an attempt was being made to suppress the report.

Watt of Cass, answered Maddock later to this. He said that the independents had learned yesterday that the new board of auditors was planning to get out an injunction to prohibit the submission of the report to the legislature if the report was not satisfactory to it.

EYES OF AMERICA ON THREE WOMEN; MAYOR, PROSECUTOR AND JUDGE

Eyes of America are on three women:

A mayor.

A prosecutor.

A judge.

Each is the first woman to hold her respective office.

The mayor is Mrs. Lillian Brownlee of Washington, Pa. She was appointed on the death of her husband.

Mrs. Brownlee's ambition is to make Washington "the best place in America in which to bring up boys and girls."

She no sooner had taken office than she ordered the police to rid the town of undesirables, to clean the lid on the poolrooms, to jail all bootleggers and to close any speakeasies.

As chief magistrate Mrs. Brownlee holds police court and the fines she's giving offenders shows she has little tolerance for the wilful law-breaker.

"I'm bringing up a boy now in Washington," says the mayor, "and I'm going to make this town safe for him and other women's sons and daughters."

The prosecutor is Miss Mary K. Davey of Hocking county, Ohio.

Miss Davey was the only Democrat elected in her county. She is preparing evidence for submission to the coming session of the grand jury.

"When women acquired the vote," says Miss Davey, "they merely obtained half their rights in government.

"Their full rights will not be attained until women are taking an equal part with men in operating the machinery of government.

"I'm going to do my bit to make this a government by men and women, for men and women—and children."

The judge is Miss Florence E. Allen of Cleveland, Ohio.

She is a Democrat, but was elected common pleas judge on a nonpartisan ticket.

"Speed, with fairness," is Judge Allen's slogan.

"Delay in courts is unfair to everyone—especially to witnesses who have nothing to gain."

Her first case took only 90 minutes, from the impanelling of the jury to the return of the verdict.

Though she's most womanly, in court she impresses one not as a woman but as a judge.

She may preside at the coming trial of another judge, Chief Justice W. H. McGannon of municipal court, charged with shooting and killing a friend in a row.

FARM BUREAU TO BE FORMED IN BURLEIGH

Delegates Are Named to State Convention to Be Held at Fargo

Plans are under way for the organization of a Burleigh county farm bureau.

At a meeting of the organization committee elected last summer to perfect the plan of organization, which was held in the office of former county agent G. W. Gustafson, who at the present time is with the State Federation of Farm Bureaus, it was decided that the county organization should affiliate with the state organization. A permanent state organization is to be formed at a meeting to be held in Fargo on Jan. 21. J. M. Thompson, of Wilton, has been named delegate from Burleigh county and Mrs. T. Ellison, of Sterling, has been named alternate.

A campaign committee, composed of Mr. Thompson, Mrs. Ellison and John Schneider, of Bismarck, has been named to solicit members of the bureau in Burleigh county. A series of meetings will be held throughout the county for the purpose of bringing before the people the work of the National Federation of Farm Bureaus, it is announced. Men connected with the state federation will speak and their schedule will be made public later. All farmers will be invited to join, it is stated.

Ellendale Listens In On Services 800 Miles Away

Pittsburg, Pa., Jan. 8.—Persons residing within 800 miles of Pittsburg and having wireless telephone receivers will be able to "listen in" on services at the Calvary Protestant Episcopal church here tomorrow. A manufacturing concern handling wireless telephone equipment has installed wireless transmitting apparatus at the church. The company has been informed by many amateur operators that they enjoy the music in the services last Sunday.

Among those that listened in were operators at Baudett, Minn., and Ellendale, N. D.

STATE TURNS DOWN BOND SALE PLAN OF BANKERS' COMMITTEE

The co-operative movement between the state administration and bankers inaugurated at a meeting held here Dec. 7 apparently is at an end today.

Bankers left for their homes last night, after a long conference with the industrial commission, stating that they had gone as far as they could, and that their efforts to sell state bonds and the organization of the North Dakota finance corporation to relieve financial conditions in the state must end.

The industrial commission's reply to the proposition laid before it by the bankers was to be made today in a formal statement. The commission's attitude, it is understood, was that there can be no compromise on the organization of state industries.

Some state officials however think there is a probability of a further get-together meeting.

The conference, which was held in the governor's office ended long after dark last night. The bankers were represented by a special committee of the state association and members of the state officials-bankers committee named Dec. 7. The state was represented by Governor Frazier, Attorney General Lemke, Commissioner of Agriculture John Hagan and Director General of the bank, E. W. Cathro.

The bankers, the chief spokesmen for whom were G. H. Register and E. J. Werner of Fargo, laid before the state officials the changes in laws they said were demanded by eastern investors before they could buy the bonds.

The action is held by bankers to mean that unless new methods of financing are devised work on the Grand Forks mill and elevator and home building must be suspended indefinitely. Plans for sale of bonds to take up the real estate mortgage bonds and provide a cash capital stock for the Bank of North Dakota are contained. Plans for the sale of county and school warrants through the finance corporation are ended. The proposition put before the industrial commission follows:

Bismarck, N. D., Jan. 7, 1921.

To the Honorable, The Industrial Commission, and The Bank of North Dakota:

The committee of bankers, invited under date of Dec. 30, last to confer with you with a view of devising some means of selling available securities and bettering the financial situation throughout the state, beg to submit the following:

Through the numerous conferences of the past month, it would appear that the most immediate and important question is the sale of the several issues of the state bonds now being offered.

The bankers of the state have earnestly endeavored to assist in the sale of these bonds, but so far without success. The administration has also been unable to sell them.

The bankers have ascertained the condition under which those bonds could now be sold by them, and with those conditions before them, make the proposition:

The bankers would undertake to sell—

$3,000,000 of farm loan bonds, as well as the balance of the $10,000,000, as reasonably needed and the market will absorb.

$2,000,000 of mill and elevator bonds to complete and put in operation the Grand Forks mill and elevator.

$250,000 of home building bonds.

$1,000,000 of the Bank of North Dakota bonds.

To bring this about, it would be necessary on the part of the administration—

To limit the operation of the Bank of North Dakota to the administration of state, state institutions, and state industry finances, farm loans and farm loan bonds.

To procure the enactment of a new depositary law for counties, townships, school districts, boards of education, villages and cities, making every going bank a permanent public depositary and fixing the rate of interest by statute, providing also for publicity as an assurance that deposits would be properly distributed.

Provide some assurance to the public that the so-called farmers' industrial program will be confined to the Grand Forks mill and elevator, the Drake mill, and the Bank of North Dakota, and that no state indebtedness other than the above be created during the term of the present administration.

To confer with attorneys for bond buyers at an early date, and if any new or amendatory legislation or order of the industrial commission is required, to make the bonds more readily marketable, to see that it is provided.

MOULDER SPURNS $500,000 FORTUNE LEFT HIM RECENTLY; SAYS IT IS ALL A MISTAKE

Milwaukee, Jan. 8.—John Wagner, said to be a comparatively poor man, a moulder in the West Milwaukee car shops, today turned his back on a fortune of $500,000 willed to him, he was notified by a woman whose life he is reported to have saved thirty years ago.

"I am sure I am not the person referred to in the will. If I thought there was the remotest possibility that I am the man I certainly would be on the job."

Relatives and friends say they remember the incident of the saving, but that Mr. Wagner suffered a sunstroke a few years after the deed which erased previous events from his memory.

Uses Spiritualism To Abduct Wife Of Wisconsin Man

Madison, Wis., Jan. 8.—Pierre Author who is alleged to have forcibly taken Mrs. Mary Franzen, wife of an employe of the University of Wisconsin, from her husband Tuesday, will be returned here from St. Louis for trial on a grand larceny charge, the local police announced.

Mrs. J. F. Wenner, of Sheboyan, an aunt of Mrs. Franzen, told of her neice's belief in spiritualism and of a clairvoyant's assertion that Author and she "were intended for each other."

CITIZENS IN MOVE TO CUT UTILITY RATES

Petition Filed Against Tariffs Charged by Hughes Electric Light Company

Application for reduction in the rates charged by the Hughes Electric Co. for electric light, heat and power and steam for domestic and other purposes was filed today by more than 80 consumers of the city, comprising some of the heaviest users of steam in the city of Bismarck.

Protest Rates.

The petition it is said is in protest to the recently 40 per cent increase in heat rates in view of a declining market in coal, labor and other essentials. Slight increases were granted by the farmer railroad commission on electric light rates.

The petition sets forth the following:

To the Honorable Board of Railroad Commissioners of the State of North Dakota:

We, the undersigned, citizens of Bismarck and consumers and purchasers of electricity for light, heat or power and consumers and purchasers of steam for heating purposes, all from the Hughes Electric Co. respectfully represent.

That the Hughes Electric company is a public utility of the city of Bismarck operating under a charter from the city of Bismarck and is furnishing and selling to citizens of the city and to the undersigned electricity for light, power and heat and steam for heating, all for domestic and other purposes.

That said Hughes Electric company is now charging to and collecting from the consumers and purchasers of general lighting and steam heat service excessive exhorbitant and unreasonable rates for said service.

Charges Violation.

That the excessive and unreasonable rates for general lighting were put into force and effect by said Hughes Electric company without authority and in violation of a suspension order issued by your Honorable Commission.

Therefore, we do petition the Board of Railroad Commissioners of the state of North Dakota, to fix a time and a place where a hearing will be had upon this complaint and that a notice of said hearing be served upon the Hughes Electric company and the undersigned.

Further that the excessive exhorbitant and unreasonable rates now charged by the Hughes Electric company for general lighting and steam heat be thereafter reduced by order and decision to rates which are reasonable and just.

POLICE BARRACK AT TRANMAR ARE ATTACKED

Dublin, Jan. 8.—The police barracks at Tranmor, county Waterford, in martial law area, were attacked last evening and a military party sent to the relief of the police was ambushed. After heavy fighting, says the statement, the members of the ambushing party were dispersed, leaving three dead. It is believed, adds the statement, that the attacking force suffered other casualties.

HARDING CONFERS ON NAVAL MATTER

Marion, O., Jan. 7.—Representative Butler, of Pennsylvania, chairman of the house naval committee, was called into conference today by President-elect Harding to consider means of reducing naval expenditures without impairing the efficiency of the nation's first line defense.

Although favoring a navy strong enough to insure safety to American shores and American commerce the President elect feels that a large part of the proposed expenditures could be dispensed with.

ELIMINATION OF SUR TAX IS IN NEW PLAN

Secretary Houston Proposes Complete Revampng of Income Law

NATIONAL POLL CHARGE

Would Subject Every One Over 21 Years to Charge of Five Dollars

Washington, Jan. 8.—A comprehensive program for revision of the federal laws estimated to yield annually the four billion dollars which Secretary Houston has said the treasury required, was filed today with the house ways and means committee by the tax committee of the national retail dry goods association.

The plan contains several proposals not heretofore advanced, including the assessment of a federal poll tax of $5 on each person over 21 years old who receives an independent income. Income tax exemption, it is proposed, would be raised from $1,000 to $2,500 for unmarried persons and from $2,000 to $3,000 for heads of families. All business would be allowed an exemption of $5,000. Other features carried in the program which was approved through a referendum of the organization's 2,000 members provide that:

Income from salaries, wages, bonuses and commissions should not be taxed at so high a rate as income from business and investment.

On Business Itself

Income derived from business should be taxed on the business itself and be subject to no additional tax when distributed to partners or stockholders.

All other income, including profit from the sales of capital assets should be taxed at a higher rate than income from business and in a still higher degree than from manual or mental efforts.

There should be a tax on gross sales of all goods sufficient when added to all other taxes proposed to aggregate the required $4,000,000,000.

The program would eliminate from the present revenue act the present excess profit taxes, surtaxes on individuals, taxes on transportation, insurance, admission dues, and on non-alcoholic beverages and special and capital stock taxes, stamp taxes and certain excise taxes.

HUSBAND SAYS WIFE "DOPED" TO FORCE WEDDING

Former Enderlin Girl Under Charge Which She Denies as Preposterous

Minneapolis, Jan. 8.—Thelma Jesswein, 16, daughter of Gus E. Jesswein, today denied that she had "doped" Edward E. Ryan of Chicago, and had tricked him into marriage. A telegram from Chicago stated that Ryan had been awarded an annulment of their marriage after he had testified that on October 10, 1919, the Minneapolis girl had given him some candy containing "knockout drops," brought him before a justice of the peace at Crown Point, Ill., and induced him to consent to a marriage ceremony while he was suffering from the effects of the drug.

"I have always lived in the country," she said. "We had just come to Chicago from Enderlin, North Dakota. I cannot understand his statement that I had drugged him and forced him into a marriage."

Mrs. Jesswein, the girl's mother, said today that she had mistrusted Ryan from the first time they met.

LICENSE LAW AMENDMENT IS TO BE ASKED

F. L. Watkins Plans Amendment to So Called "Pool Hall Law"

SOME ASK REPEAL

Hold That Supervision Should Be Left With Local Authorities

Is it or isn't it constitutional? Will it or will it not be repealed, or will a happy medium of revision be acceptable to the forces of the State Enforcement league and the Billiard Men's association who are waging a lobby warfare over the so-called pool hall act?

The executive committee of the North Dakota Billiard Men's association was due to arrive in Bismarck today for a conference with reference to the law which in 1919 created the state licensing department under the office of the attorney general. Billiard hall men of the state prefer that their places be again placed under inspection and regulation of the towns or cities in which they are located. Leaders of the North Dakota Enforcement league say they are well satisfied with the present law but ask for more stringent penalties for law violations.

Under the provisions of the state license department act theatres and taxicab stands in cities are called upon to pay a fee of $50.00 per year while in towns or villages the fee is $10.00 on theatres and $15.00 on taxicab stands. F. L. Watkins, superintendent of the enforcement league is the author of a bill amending the present statute in which theatres and movie houses would pay a minimum fee of $10.00 and a fee of $4.00 per hundred seating capacity. This it is held furnishes an equitable fee replacing the present system which forces theatre men of small incorporated cities like Crystal, Aneta, and Steele, with populations of less than 500 to pay the same fee as theatres in Fargo, Grand Forks and other populous centers.

License All Places.

Watkins would also include in his amended law the licensing of all places where cigars and tobaccos are sold. This is admittedly for the purpose of placing what are now strictly tobacco shops within the pale of the penalties of the licensing act. This penalty section he would amend so that any violator of any two laws such as the sale of cigarettes, and in the case of a pool hall, allowing minors to enter his place, would suffer revocation of license, and injunction closing the place of business. A plea of guilt on a second offense would, under the Watkins amendment, call for the same drastic penalty.

The state licensing department during the 20 months of its operation under the supervision of William Langer, caused the arrest of approximately 300 men for violation of the anti-cigarette law. It is conservatively estimated that city and county officials in various parts of the state arrested perhaps 500 more. Of the 850 arrests made in 20 months for violations of the cigarette law, retiring officials of the licensing department hazard the estimate that 98 per cent are again selling cigarettes, merely having boosted the retail price on the commodity.

Say It Is Unpopular.

Retailers insist that the law is not only unpopular to the extreme, but a farce and point to the repeal of cigarette laws in practically every state in the union. Watkins and his forces insist that more stringent enforcement and penalties are needed.

Men in close touch with the billiard hall men of the state declare that no effort will be made to introduce or pass a law for the licensed sale of cigarettes, but they point to proposed amendments as being confiscatory and the present law as giving an undue discretionary and arbitrary power to an appointive official.

The status of the present law, too, is questioned. Nearly a year ago Judge Frank Allen of Lisbon, held the present law unconstitutional. A pool man in his district was arrested for failing to obtain a license under the law. He obtained a writ of habeas corpus from Judge Allen on the ground that the law was unconstitutional in that it violated the right of self-government granted to the various cities by the constitution. Judge Allen further held the law unconstitutional in that it took from sheriffs created by the constitution their powers and lodged the same with officials created by legislative enactment.

No appeal was taken from the decision of Judge Allen and as a consequence the law is unconstitutional in the sixth district and effective throughout the rest of the state.

Refused to Pay.

Recently an attorney in a southwestern county of the state advised a billiard hall man client not to pay his license fee on the grounds that the present law was imperative. When questioned upon this matter the attorney declared that in his opinion the present law by the special session was revised and amended and made part of the state sheriff law; that the state sheriff law was referred to the people and repealed; that by virtue of this repeal of the state sheriff act the original state licensing department was repealed. A prominent jurist of the state is quoted as saying there is a great deal of force to that argument, a great deal of force."

In this connection Justice James E. Robinson of the supreme court in his recent message to the legislature said: "Do not fail to undo the city pool hall and theater tax levy. It

HASN'T FELT BETTER IN 40 YEARS, HE SAYS

St. Paul Man Feels as Spry as When a Boy Since Taking Tanlac, He States—Eats Anything He Wants Now

"I can honestly say I don't believe I was in better health forty years ago than I am right now," declared C. A. Bergman, 738 Marshall Ave., St. Paul, Minn., in telling of his remarkable improvement by taking Tanlac.

"My health was all broken up, and I was going down hill right along. My stomach bothered me so bad I couldn't enjoy a single meal in fact was afraid to eat much of anything I had pains and cramps that nearly doubled me up and my heart palpitated so bad it frightened me. I was nervous and was troubled a great deal with constipation and headaches. Many a night I had to get out of bed and pace the floor to get my mind off my misery so I could rest a little.

"I took a turn for the better in a few days after I started taking Tanlac, and now I am in great shape and feel as spry as a boy. I am never troubled in any way whatever now, eat anything I like and can do as much work as I used to years ago. I am a great believer in Tanlac and praise it above all other medicines."

Tanlac is sold in Bismarck by Jos. Breslow, in Driscoll by N. D. and J. H. Barrette, in Wing by H. P. Homan, and in Strasburg by Strasbudg Drug Co.

STEEN PLACES CASH TO DRAW MORE INTEREST

New Treasurer Would Have Departments Get Benefit of Higher Rate

FIRE AND TORNADO FUND

John Steen, state treasurer, has placed $350,000 of workmen's compensation funds in the Bank of North Dakota on certificate of deposit. The action followed a conference with the board, which favored the action.

The money has been on open account for sometime, Mr. Steen found, and under the new rates of interest of the Bank of North Dakota the compensation bureau had lost the difference between 3 per cent and 5 1-2 per cent interest.

Mr. Steen also found $86,903.49 in the state fire and tornado insurance fund on open checking account. He was unable to find ay express provisions as to the manner in which the fund was to be deposited, but he points out that the legislature ought to make it mandatory upon officials to place the money on certificate of deposit. Under the new rules of the Bank of North Dakota if the money were placed on certificate of deposite it would draw 5 per cent and if it were necessary to ask for it before the expiration of the time it still would draw the checking account rate. Mr. Steen planned to confer with officials of the insurance department and find out if all of the money but a few thousand dollars could not be placed on certificate of deposit, at the higher rate.

S. A. Olsness, commissioner of insurance, when informed of Mr. Steen's discovery, said that he would consult with the head of the fire and tornado fund and consider the matter. He said that if the fund were large enough to permit the deposits the department ought to be getting interested.

TAX REFUNDS HINGE UPON INCOME CASE

Washington, Jan. 7.—Arguments were begun today in the "invested capital" case, characterized by Solicitor General Frierson as "the most important legal suit from the standpoint of government finances in a decade." Whether the government will be forced to return hundreds of millions of dollars paid as income taxes depends on the outcome.

RECEIVER OF BANK NAMED

$26,000 Shortage in Crystal Springs Institution

H. D. Hanson, of Steele, has been appointed receiver for the First State Bank of Crystal Springs, by the state banking board. The bank closed its doors following an examination. It was said after the bank board meeting that a shortage had been found. The shortage is reported to be about $26,000.

SURPLUS WHEAT 261 MILLION

Chicago, Jan. 27.—Estimates that the exportable surplus wheat in Argentine and Australia would total 261,000,000 bushels has a bearish effect today on the wheat market. Opening prices which ranged 1¼ to 2 cents lower were followed by a further decline and then something of a rally. Close unsettled 1¾ to 2¾ net losses.

WANTED—ALIMONY MEN.

Chicago, Jan. 7.—The Koo Koo Klan has asked the courts to help it in a membership drive. The Klan can't hold meetings with less than four members. It has only three. The Klan is made up of those serving time in jail here for failure to pay alimony.

WHAT'S IN A NAME!

Greenville, S. C., Jan. 7.—G. A. Wischeart, Jr., doesn't know the first name of his great-great-grandfather, and he's not worrying about it. Wischeart has just inherited $2,000,000 because his great-great-grandfather owned several blocks in Philadelphia. Litigation over the property lasted a hundred years.

YOU'RE NOT DRESSED WITHOUT IT—Don't go out half dressed, girls. Have a bird, or a snake, or your initials, or something "fancy" painted on your back when you wear evening gowns, or you aren't fully "clothed," according to Miss Bird Millman. New York girl, whom you see here being decorated for a party by Artist Millard.

WOOD NAMES FEW MORE COMMITTEES

Highway committee — Mikelthun, Liederbach, Whitman, Ward, Kendall, Sperry, Ettestad, Ness, Wog, Shrenck.

Chairman appropriations committee—Church.

Chairman ways and means—Wenstrom.

Chairman agriculture—Ettestad.

Chairman tax—Bowman.

Chairman women's and children's welfare—Baker.

IT AIN'T "P"TATER."

Lancaster, Ky., Jan. 7.—"She spelled 'tater' with a P," declared a fond mother. "We don't intend to let no such ignorant person teach our child!" Forest Stapp, circuit judge, fined her $10 for keeping a child from school.

TIME CLOCK FOR CITY

Paducah, Ky., Jan. 7.—All city officials and employes may have to punch time "in" and "out." Mayor Katterjohn has asked that a time clock be installed in the city hall so that efficiency data may be gathered.

SLUMP IN TEA TRADE.

Ceylon, Jan. 7.—Several tea estates have stopped producing and some have been offered for sale. Cost of production averages 16 Ceylon cents and prices obtained at auction average 24.5 cents. Reason for the slump is heavy stock of low-grade tea held in London.

OLDEST MANAGERS

Omaha. When "Pa" Rourke sold his interest in the Omaha club he wound up his 21st year as a manager. Rourke was born in Columbus, O., in 1864. This leaves Charles Comiskey the oldest acting manager in baseball.

O'NEILL CONVALESCENT

Minooka, Pa. Jimmy O'Neill, brother of the famous Indian catcher Steve, is now convalescing from pneumonia fever. Jimmy expects to be back on the Washington infield when the bell sounds.

THIRD LEAGUE

Butte, Mont. Cliff Blankenship, manager of the Spokane club in the Pacific International League, is planning to form a six-club league in which Butte, Great Falls, Helena, Spokane and two other cities will be included. This will be the third coast circuit.

Dry Mined Lehigh Lignite Coal for Sale. W. J. Dobson, 615 Anderson St., Phone 659 R.

REASON ENOUGH—This young lady is Miss Betty Walker of Washington, D. C. She hasn't defeated anybody at chess; she is not married or divorced; in fact, we don't know much about her. But anybody so charming as she deserves to have her picture in the paper, so here it is.

DENIES MOTION TO DISMISS WATER SUIT

Fargo, Jan. 7.—Judge J. W. Woodrough in federal court at noon today denied the motion of the Bismarck Water Supply company to quash the complaint of the city in a suit to forfeit the city's franchise contract with the water company. The company's claims that there were not sufficient facts in the case to require an answer.

TO ELECTRIFY ROAD

Berne, Jan. 7.—Electrification of the Gotthard railway running from Switzerland to Italy has been nearly completed and electric trains now are running through the mountain area from Eastfield in the northern Alps, to Bisasca at the foot of the Alps, on the south.

HALT PRODUCTION.

Lexington, Ky., Jan. 7.—No burley tobacco will be grown in Kentucky, Indiana and Ohio during 1921 and tobacco sales floors will remain closed indefinitely if resolutions passed at a meeting of farmers from all parts of the district are carried out.

Spiritualism Among Savages.

The original exponents of spiritualism are found among the tribes living about the headwaters of the Amazon. These people take no important steps in any direction without consulting the spirits through a medium who is held in reverence and fear by the other members of the tribe. Their ceremonies are very elaborate and are always conducted at night by the light of a fire.

Not Notified of Election.

A singular omission in the matter of legal formalities is the failure of the laws of the United States to provide for notifying a President-elect of his election. The result of the electoral vote is recorded in the journals of both houses of congress, but it is left for the President-elect to find out the result in whatever way he can, and to present himself for inauguration on the next succeeding fourth day of March.

Wood for the World's Pencils.

The Ozark hills of Missouri furnish wood for a great proportion of the world's supply of lead pencils. The trees are stunted red cedars which grow on the hillsides. Their trunks at the butt seldom attain a diameter of more than a foot. The red heart of the wood only is used. The white sap wood is rejected. The lumber is sawed up into "slats" and shipped to the factories in this country and abroad. No other wood seems to answer as well for this purpose.

In Case of Fainting.

One day in school the teacher asked us what we would do in case of fainting. A pupil quickly answered: "Throw water on yourself!"

STORAGE PRICE FOR WHEAT IS GROWERS' AIM

Part of Program of Wheat Farmers in Association Just Formed

Wichita Kas., Jan. 7.—A financial plan to "control and market wheat at a price based on cost of production plus a fair profit" will be worked out at a national convention of the Wheat Growers Association of America early in the spring, it is announced by W. H. McGreevy, secretary-treasurer.

Organization of the association, the membership of which exceeds 100,000 according to Mr. McGreevy, will be completed in the early months of 1921 in the wheat producing states of the Middle West, he declared. He included Minnesota, North and South Dakota, Nebraska, Kansas, Oklahoma, Texas and parts of Colorado and Montana.

"The financial plan to be adopted is one that will enable the wheat grower, who requires money to carry him over the period while he is waiting for suitable marketing conditions, to borrow money on his wheat at a reasonable rate of interest," said Mr. McGreevy.

Pooling Plan.

"The pooling plan of holding our wheat requires the wheat grower to sign agreements which are binding and effective, wherein he agrees to market no wheat until the price of our association, based on cost plus a fair profit, is received.

"The wheat grown by the members of the association shall be marketed gradually and uniformly throughout the year as the flour mills and the exporters may require to supply the legitimate demands of trade.

"That no injustice may occur to the wheat growers, while holding their wheat to be marketed under this plan, a storage price that will be fair and just will be allowed to the wheat grower for each month he is required to hold his wheat for proper marketing conditions. This storage price will enable the wheat growers to deliver their wheat uniformly to market throughout the year without discrimination and injustice to any of them.

"In answer to the question some times asked as to the meaning of the words on our membership cards where a member signing agrees "to abide by the regulations adopted by such organization for the purpose of regulating and marketing the price of our wheat after 1919." I would say that this obligation of our membership is necessary to a uniform and concerted action by it to accomplish the objects of our association.

"All rules and regulations are adopted by our membership either in national convention or by committees so authorized by it; so that all obligations of our membership are of its own choosing and are not at any time arbitrarily forced upon it."

The first bicycle driven by pedals was built in Paris in 1866.

This Curfew Has a History.

Several of the curfew bells in England are kept ringing because of some old legend or custom. That at Chertsey, in Surrey, for instance, which had been rung regularly for centuries until stopped temporarily during the great war, is the one made famous by the legend which relates how Blanch Herlot to save the life of her lover condemned to die at sundown, climbed the curfew tower and held the clapper of the great bell declaring that "our lover shall not ring tonight."

System Counts.

The difference between a confused household, where things are never entirely in order, and one where the work moves along systematically and tasks seem easily done, is the difference between planning and not planning. It is not the easiest thing in the world to make a schedule for housework—and stick to it! But when one sees the results which are possible through setting aside a definite time for definite things, one sees that it is surely worth trying.

PRIZES GIVEN FOR POULTRY EXHIBIT HERE

PRAISE GIVEN JUDGE

The seventh annual poultry show of the Missouri Slope association concluded last night after a three days exhibition, declared by officials to be the most successful exhibit ever held. The attendance of farmers from Burleigh and other counties indicated a growing interest in the poultry business.

Officials had high praise for Olin Colip, Indiana poultry expert, who was judge for the show.

"Mr. Colip was eminently fair," said John Schneider, poultry department secretary. "Everyone seemed satisfied. Mr. Colip gave valuable information to new members of the association. England's Defense

Takes Many Precautions to Guard Against Sinn Fein

(N. E. A.—Staff Special.)

London, Jan. 8.—John Bull has taken elaborate precautions to prevent Sinn Feiners from "carrying the war to England."

Here are some of the defensive measures perfected:

ONE—A vast secret service is working in Ireland to uncover plans for Sinn Fein operations in England.

TWO—The coast guard has been strengthened to keep out Sinn Fein agents.

THREE—All ships, shipyards, warehouses and docks are closely watched.

FOUR—Downing street, where Lloyd George lives, has been shut off by a high wall, with entrance by permit only.

FIVE—The houses of Parliament are heavily guarded by uniformed and plain clothes officers outside and inside the buildings; loitering in the hall or lobbies is prohibited; a "strategic" telephone system has been installed; armed boats patrol the Thames river side of the building.

120 MEN AND WOMEN UNDER DEATH SENTENCE

Tidal Wave of Crime Has Swept The Nation from Coast to Coast

NEW YORK STATE FIRST

Heads List with Thirteen Under Capital Penalty for Murder

One hundred and twenty men and women await death sentence.

This is America's answer to the crime wave.

A canvass made by The Tribune of every state in the union shows that sentiment is swinging back toward capital punishment.

In 1918 there were 85 legal executions in the United States; in 1917 there were the same number

Before the war clemency was gaining on vengeance, reform on punishment.

But the tidal wave of crime that has swept the nation since the war has brought swift reaction in a swing toward the death penalty in the 36 states that invoke it

In 25 of these 36 states, and the District of Columbia, from 1 to 11 persons are awaiting the gallows, or the electric chair, or the firing squad

In Idaho two women are under sentence of death.

Reports from all these states are that juries are more severe, judges slower to grant new trials and governors more infrequently commuting sentences.

The Tribune's canvass of the nation shows the following have prisoners awaiting execution.

Alabama	2
Arkansas	11
California	1
District of Columbia	3
Georgia	1
Idaho (two women)	3
Indiana	2
Illinois	8
Kentucky	1
Maryland	1
Mississippi	6
Missouri	2
Montana	1
New Jersey	1
New York	13
North Carolina	8
Ohio	2
Oklahoma	4
Pennsylvania	8
South Carolina	4
Tennessee	1
Texas	10
Utah	2
Virginia	2
West Virginia	1
Wyoming	1

There are 12 states that do not have capital punishment. They are: Arizona, Kansas, Maine, Michigan, Minnesota, North Dakota, Oregon, Rhode Island, South Dakota, Washington, Wisconsin and Iowa.

Eleven states that have capital punishment laws, but report no executions pending are: Colorado, Connecticut, Delaware, Louisiana, Massachusetts, Nebraska, Nevada, New Hampshire, Vermont, Florida and New Mexico

Police in New York, Chicago, Cleveland and other large cities beset by murderous gangs of criminals who commit on busiest thoroughfares crimes which formerly were believed possible only in the "wild west," are foremost in demanding capital punishment. Many citizens, public officials and authorities on crime support the police.

But opponents of "legal murder" declare blood-shedding by the state fails of its purpose. They argue that states without capital punishment have suffered no worse from the crime wave than states inflicting the death penalty

Two Opposing Authorities on Question.

Raymond Fosdick of New York, leading authority on police administration and criminology, says:

"Capital punishment is still necessary in America.

It has a greater deterring effect on crime than any other thing.

"Any movement to abolish capital punishment would encourage and increase crime."

Professor Edith Abbott of Chicago university, famous for her investigations of crime, is against capital punishment.

"Hanging doesn't make men better, and makes society worse

"The spectacle of an execution depresses public morals.

"The sureness and swiftness of punishment means more than death as a deterrent of crime.

"Juries dislike to send murderers to death. The slayers then think they 'got off easy'."

Chief of Police Frank W. Smith of Cleveland has personally gone into court to demand the death penalty for slayers of policemen.

Bandit Killer's Case.

He blames courtroom leniency for the increase in crime. He points to the recent case of Jiggs Losteiner, bandit and killer, captured red-handed after a battle at a bank in which several persons were shot. Losteiner was wanted then for three murders; he was convicted of one—and drew a life sentence—immediately banditry broke out with renewed violence, two manufacturers being ruthlessly slain in one holdup.

"If Losteiner had been sentenced to the chair," says Smith, "the others might have thought twice."

But where Cleveland hadn't sentenced a man to death in six years, it now has three men awaiting execution at the state penitentiary.

Oklahoma, Feb. 25, will have its first double electrocution.

Many Causes of Murders.

Not all the deathhouse prisoners are bandits, however. Many are in for crimes resulting from hate, jealousy and kindred emotions.

Among 14 under death sentence in Arkansas are 12 negroes who were involved in a race riot.

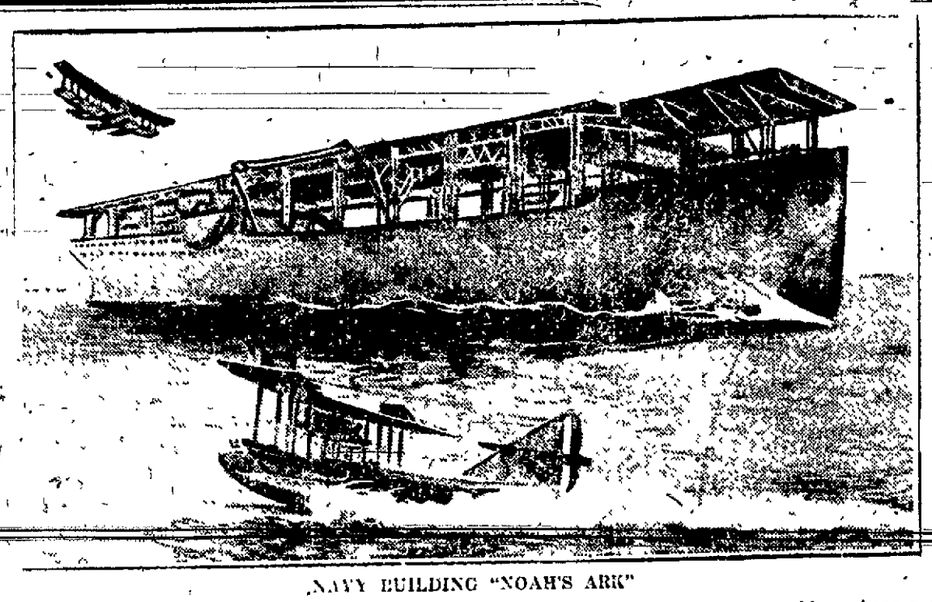
Wyoming is about to electrocute a Chinese tongman who had carried a gun for years with the avowed purpose of killing anyone who interfered with him.

Utah will shoot two men who murdered their victim within sight of the scene of the coming execution.

Besides the eight men under death sentence in Pennsylvania there are eight others who have appealed convictions of first degree murder charges.

Two of the condemned men in Montana killed a man who caught them stealing whisky.

The majority of the states report that they never have executed women.



NAVY BUILDING "NOAH'S ARK"

The U. S. Navy is soon to have a strange vessel that looks like the old drawings of Noah's ark. Here's how it will look when completed. It's an aft carrier with a big flat top on which planes can alight at sea. The old collier Jupiter is being remodeled into this vessel for the fleet. It will carry, below, machine shops and an assembling plant for aircraft. Britain devised one something like it during the war.

HOUSE BLOCKS LEAGUE EFFORT ON ACCOUNTANTS

expected someone, probably one of the supervisors, would come with the report.

Vogel of McLean made an attack on the audit company, holding that it was not an efficient company and that it was on trial also.

What Olson Said

Olson of Golden Valley, suggested that they call the report and then call all the men they wanted to.

Watt of Cass, maintained that it was only common sense to do that.

Bauer of Sioux, put in a vigorous note.

"The people of North Dakota," he said, "want the information. I believe that there is a red flag skunk in the manure pile somewhere."

Bauer and Maddock got in a controversy as to whether Maddock had signed the secret caucus pledge or not, which was ended when Watt called the house back to the question before it.

Twitchell again urged that no money could be spared to pay men for coming here until the house knew who it wanted.

Barton of Dunn wanted all at once and Burkhardt of Ward claimed the report would be forthcoming anyway.

Speaker Twitchell here expressed an opinion that the resolution really was out of order as it was an attempt to amend a resolution adopted yesterday, really an underhanded attempt.

Senates Action

Larkin of Eddy, then suggested that the senate had already passed the resolution.

"If the senate has done so," replied the speaker, "then it is guilty of an act of discourtesy to the house."

"If there was any discourtesy," maintained Maddock, "it was on the part of the house in passing the first resolution without conference with the senate."

Olson, of Golden Valley, suggested that if the senate had already passed the resolution, there was no need of any action of the house as the men would come at the call of the senate, and the speaker agreed with him that they couldn't very well appear at two places at the same time.

The vote followed.

The house late Friday placed on the second reading the two bills introduced Thursday, one calling for an increase in the soldiers tax levy and the other for more money for the attorney general's office.

LICENSE LAW AMENDMENT IS TO BE ASKED

amounts to $50,000 a year and three-fourths of it is spent for collection, which should not exceed five or ten per cent. With a few exceptions each city and county should be permitted to manage its own affairs and make its own laws."

Amount Collected.

The justice is wrong in two particulars, say outgoing officials of the department. Two yearly collections barely exceed $30,000 and perhaps 25 per cent is spent on collections.

However say the billiard hall men, city and county officials could do better work than one inspector and two deputies. On the other hand, Watkins would increase the force to five deputies in addition to the inspector who under William Lemke's appointment is Harry Dunbar, and increases salaries from $2,500 to $3,000 per year.

Watkins declares that his amended law will be introduced among the first of the bills in one house or the other. The billiard hall men will meet in annual convention at Bismarck January 11 to contest any but changes in the fees.

Storm's Majesty Caught By Camera

Electrical Display Used as Smashing Climax in Film, "The Stealers"

The majestic grandeur and the frequently fatal results of a terrific thunder and lightning storm are shown in "The Stealers," William Christy Cabanne's powerful story of the humanites, a Robertson-Cole super-special, which will began a run of two days at the Elkinge Theatre beginning Monday.

The storm shown in the picture is not a make-believe one, staged especially for the screening of the play. The scene was the last taken by Mr. Cabanne, who directed as well as wrote the famous film. It was taken last because Mr. Cabanne a disciple of David Wark Griffith, and therefore a believer in profound realism, deferred its filming until the scene could betaken under actual storm conditions.

Inasmuch as atmospheric disturbances are not as yet being made to order, Mr. Cabanne had a long wait But his patience was amply rewarded for when the storm finally arrived on location near Haverstraw, N. Y.

So obliging did the storm prove that a bolt struck directly behind the house which had been created by Mr. Cabanne for the specific purpose of being destroyed by lightning. As the building became enveloped in flames and the firemen arrived more than 5,000 townspeople gathered to watch the spectacle, despite the raging of the elements. The rescue of several persons from the burning building and the realism of the storm photography makes this scene one of the outstanding ones of the picture.

The scenic splendors of "The Stealers" are only surpassed by the heart-gripping, soul elevating plot. The story revolves about a preacher of the Gospel who, submitted to suffering, turning against God and sought to revenge himself against the Creator by leading a life of crime under the cloak of his calling. How he is made to see the error of his ways and is won back to the true functions of his calling forms the most moving climax that has ever been seen in the opinion of experts.

Patience.

A phlegmatic business ability is as different from patience as a pool is unlike a harbor. Into the one indifference naturally sinks us, but if we arrive at the other it is by encountering many an adverse wind and round wave with a more skilful pilot at the helm than ourselves, and a company under better command than the passions.—Dilwyn.

TRIBUNE WANTS FOR RESULTS

Elderly People Need This In Medicine Chest

To relieve chronic constipation, always keep a bottle of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin handy.

NEARLY all people as they advance in age suffer from chronic constipation. Many, however, are indifferent to the laxative they use, on the theory that "they are all alike." That is a great mistake.

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, for example, is a mild, gentle liquid laxative, and it does not lose its effect with repeated use. It so trains the bowel muscles that in time medicines of all kinds can be dispensed with.

A sixty-cent bottle of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin will last many months. The prescription was written thirty years ago by Dr. W. B. Caldwell, a well-known family doctor, who is himself now in his 82nd year and can appreciate what chronic constipation must mean to elderly people; how it brings on headaches, colds, loss of appetite and sleep, heaviness and a general dull feeling.

Every home that has an elderly man or woman should be provided with a bottle of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. Eight million bottles were bought at drug stores last year. It is a truly wonderful constipation remedy.

THE AMBASSADOR FROM NOWHERE

BY GIBSON GARDNER

A subject of never ending speculation in Washington is how long Boris Bakhmetieff can continue to pay rent on the huge marble mansion, which is called the Russian Embassy, on 16th street.

Bakhmetieff came to America as ambassador of the Kerensky government. He later tried to hold himself out to the world as representing the government of Kolchak, Denikin, Yudenitch and Wrangle.

With the disappearance of these reactionary imperialists, Boris Bakhmetieff had become ambassador from nowhere. He has a large fund to his account in some Morgan bank, the balance of the million loaned by the United States during the war to the Kerensky government, and presumably it is from this United States money that he is paying rent for his swell ambassadorial layout and salaries to his large staff of help.

SHE'S YOUNG AT 87

That "stormy petrel," of the world "Mother Jones," who visited Washington recently is 87.

She has been in jail nearly as many times as a Russian revolutionist under the czar. The powers that be have now stopped putting her in jail. In fact, they seem now to have a social of a charmed life.

She goes and comes when and where she will, when others would be arrested or shot down.

She has the entry in all government offices. She can see the secretary of war or the attorney general when others cool their heels in the waiting room. And when she sees these high officials, they hear something from her which is pretty nearly undiluted fact. It is undiluted at least by any complimentary phrases or flattering introduction.

She tells officials what she thinks of them and she tells them what the conditions are where labor war is bitterest.

I have reason to believe that she has saved the lives of some of the higher-ups. She knows the extremists in this bitter warfare and has their confidence. When she tells them that a bomb under the chair of some high government person will do their cause more harm than good they bury the bomb in the back yard.

Before she gets real old Mother Jones says she intends to write her reminiscences. If she does it will be a good story. She has seen real life and adventure. This seems to have kept her young as the 87 years have left no more traces than are usual at 60 years.

CHILD WELFARE CLINIC SUCCESS

The first time that a department for women has been worked out in connection with the Missouri Slope Poultry show, has proven a decided success. The real aim of the county home demonstration agent, Miss Elsie Stark, was to put on a child welfare clinic, demonstrating food nutrition. This succeeded beyond the expectations of Miss Stark and her assistants. Miss Inez Hobart, food specialist from the agricultural college and nurses from both hospitals, working together in the free clinic, had more than they could do; so enthusiastic was the response from women and children for measurement of the children and study of proper nutrition. Many children had to be turned away for want of accommodation.

In the clothing department, where made over clothing was exhibited and methods for making wearing apparel from old things at hand, attracted a great deal of attention from the men as well as from women. Miss Stark had this department in charge. Prizes were awarded in the various departments of the women's exhibits as follows:

The clothing exhibit was to show the women what could be accomplished by women in the way of made over garments. The exhibit consisted of children's garments made out of sheeting, including three girls' dresses, petticoats and underwear, all five garments totaling $1.74 when finished. Another display was made up of garments out of mill ends, including infants' underwear. Then there were made over garments as follows:

Boy overcoat and cap, gent's overcoat, woolen dresses for girls, cotton dresses for girls, underwear for girls, boy's suits of clothes, woolen; boy's suits of clothes, cotton, ladies' made over dresses, children's hats.

Happy After 20 Years

I must write and tell you I am getting along fine. For 20 years, that is over half of my life, I have spent in poor health and suffering from severe gas on stomach and indigestion. Mayr's Wonderful Remedy has entirely restored me. I also know of several others who have taken it for the same trouble and are now well again. It is a simple harmless preparation that removes the catarrhal mucus from the intestinal tract and allays the inflammation which causes practically all stomach, liver and intestinal ailments including appendicitis. One dose will convince or money refunded. All druggists.

HARMONY PLAN OF SENATE TO A COMMITTEE

Baker's Resolution Goes to Consideration of State Affairs Committee

The state affairs committee of the senate will pass on the so-called resolution introduced Thursday afternoon by Senator Baker, which calls for a committee of ten men, five members from the house and five senatorators from the senate.

Reference to the committee came as the result of a motion by Senator Alfred Steel of Stutsman county, seconded by Senator Bowman, designer in addressing the senate on the matter, Mr. Steel said

"In making my motion I request Senator Baker not to impugn my motives. I am sure that none of us are infallible, and when I differ from an opinion of another man is my privilege and my duty to say so. My opinion may be peculiar, but I have a strong conviction that I am here to exercise that God given reason which I possess myself. I have not reached that stage where I am willing to concede to any man the right to tell me how to vote or how not to vote on what bills may be introduced

Steering Committee

"This resolution smatters of what was known as a steering committee in the old days. It was my privelege to witness the workings of old time steering committees and the impressions made on my mind then were lasting. That impression was that much excellent legislation was stifled by such a committee and it constitutes a disgrace to the legislative bodies. Such a committee might be a delayed bills committee and function as such, but this session is only two days old and we haven't reached the stage yet. This body went on record yesterday intending to refer all important matters to committees. The state affairs committee can hold this resolution and report it out when the time seems fit."

Senator Bowman in seconding the motion observed, that the senator seemed to have changed his policy since yesterday, but declared he favored the motion.

Senator Grace, leaguer, expressed willingness to have the bill referred but only because under "the new day" and under modern rules and progressive day, the measure would automatically be referred back to the senate in seven days

Senator Levang opposed the bill being referred on the viva voce vote the ayes prevailed

INCOME RULES ARE ANNOUNCED

Regulations governing the preparation of inventories by those who are required to make a return on inventory basis for 1920 was announced today by W. D. Byerly, collector of internal revenue for the district of North Dakota.

"Inventories must be valued at (a) cost or (b) cost or market, as defined in article 1581 as amended, whichever is lower. (See article 1585 for inventories by dealers in securities.) Whichever basis is adopted must be applied consistently to the entire inventory. A taxpayer may, regardless of his past practice, adopt the basis of "cost or market, whichever is lower" for his 1920 inventory, provided a disclosure of the fact that it represents a change, is made in the return. Thereafter changes can be made only after permission is secured from the commissioner. Inventories should be recorded in a legible manner, properly computed and summarized, and should be preserved as a part of the accounting records of the taxpayer. Goods taken in the inventory which have been so intermingled that they cannot be identified with specific invoices will be deemed to be the goods most recently purchased."

WOULD CURB SPECULATION

Representative Clarson, of Pembina county, introduced a bill in the house this afternoon designed to curb speculative stock selling.

It is said that many farmers in Pembina and Cavalier counties have sunk large sums of money in stocks that proved worthless.

The bill would require that a stock salesman selling a speculative stock write on the note or security of the stock.

The stock salesman or company would be barred from collecting on the note if this provision were not followed.

Prospector Hunts Riches for Years; Inherits Them

(N. E. A. Staff Special.)

Helena, Mont., Jan. 8.—Frank Lamy, prospector, has struck it rich after twenty years' pursuit of fortune in the hills and mining camps of Montana.

But the strike is through no effort of his own.

He has fallen heir to a fifty-thousand dollar estate in Michigan, left to him by a brother.

Fifteen years ago Lamy tried to interest this brother in the mining of this tract of land. Laurent couldn't see the plan and the boys split up, Frank coming to Montana.

Laurent died two years ago.

Lawyers took up the search for Frank. An advertisement in Montana papers located him.

Lamy is going to Michigan with the intention of putting his plan of prospecting his brother's land, which fell through 15 years ago, into effect.

HOW TO BEAT THE DEATH RATE

There now occur annually in the United States about 1,250, deaths. And the surgeon general of the Public Health Service, H. S. Cummings is authority for the assertion that of this number 100,000 could be prevented easily "by the application of available medical knowledge." The saving of 100,000 lives in a year means much. It means as many people as all who live in such cities as Duluth, a couple of Wheelings, Tacoma, and San Antonio. Something really worth while.

The surgeon general declares nearly everyone of the 15,000 deaths from diphtheria could be prevented if anti-toxin treatment were resorted to, or permit those susceptible to diphtheria as shown by cultures to be immunized. He says that nearly all of 10,000 deaths a year from typhoid fever could be prevented if communities would only be sure that their milk and water supplies are pure, and if but the simplest precautions were taken in homes where typhoid is found. Of the 40 deaths from smallpox in the year, he declares all could have been saved had each been vaccinated.

"The expense of this lifesaving through prevention and control of disease is slight," Surgeon General Cummings says "when contrasted with the saving affected. Money spent in this direction is a most profitable form of investment, a most urgent need of this reconstruction period."

The surgeon general only reiterates what hundreds of practicing physicians have said time and again in their fight for the public health.

ROLLO IN TAXLAND

One cold December night Uncle George was making out his income tax return. He was cussin' under his breath. Rollo looked up from his ouija board and in a sweet, childish voice asked:

"Uncle George, how much income must a man have to keep an automobile?"

Then Uncle George took down a government report, looked in it and said: "Last year only 4,425,114 Americans stepped forward and admitted in hollow voices that their income was as much as $1,000 a year if single or $2,000 a year if married."

Then Rollo said: "So not many of them owned cars."

But Uncle George said: "In the same year about 6,400,000 Americans were somehow able to own and operate pleasure cars. This leaves 2,000,000 single men who say they make less than $20 a week and married men who make less than $40 a week, yet somehow they all manage to keep the old bus in repairs and gas."

Rollo asked: "Prices were so high in 1918, how did those 2,000,000 people ever get money to buy their cars in the first place?"

Uncle George tried to figure it out but gave up. He said: "In New York state five people paid income tax to every two that owned cars. In North Carolina there was only one tax return for every five autos."

"How do they do it?" Rollo said.

"It beats me," said Uncle George. "Either a lot of fellows are dodging taxes and making more for the rest of us to pay, or else they've discovered how to make a dollar stretch like rubber."

Sixth grade teacher in Pennsylvania forced his pupils to play kissing games. They need no forcing in high school.

LENGTHENING DAYS

A few weeks more and the lengthening of days, already begun, will become noticeable.

Each day the sun arrives a bit earlier and lingers a bit longer and each new second of sunlight attests the promise of recurring life beneath the shroud of winter.

A few weeks more and melting snows will reveal again the proofs of immortality, in the early greens bursting through the sodden earth.

Thus is nature staging her profound morality play for doubting and despairing mortals. The bleak winter day is as the embittered soul that walks in darkness, bare of hope, like the gaunt tree swaying before winte's blasts.

And to such, nature says: "See my winter. It is the symbol of your despair and the bitterness of your life. And, yet, have you observed how the sunlight already is breaking into and dissolving the dusk of the short days?

"And do you know that the earth, today seemingly as bleak as your heart, is astir, underneath its sullen face, with the expectancy and hope of sunlit months?

"Lift your eyes from the ground, my discouraged friend, and behold in the lingering sun the symbol of the hope that you have shut out from your heart."

EDITORIAL REVIEW

Comments reproduced in this column may or may not express the opinion of The Tribune. They are presented here in order that our readers may have both sides of important issues which are being discussed in the press of the day.

THE TURN OF THE TIDE

The pendulum of business which had swung so far up toward high prices and feverish activity, has been for some months swinging back again toward nominal prices. The question is, How far will the swing of the pendulum take it before it pauses and begins the backward swing?

This is substantially the question the Review of Reviews asked a number of expert observers, some of them practical leaders in industry, and some of them more academic students of economic trends. The answers make an instructive symposium in the January number.

It is significant and reassuring that every one of the participants in the discussion believes that the end of the period of readjustment is approaching. Most of them believe that spring will see the turn in the tide.

Irving Fisher, professor of political economy at Yale, thinks the latter half of 1921 will be a period of prosperity, but without a return to pre-war price levels. There has been a permanent dislocation of these levels by two agencies—the expansion of credit by the Federal Reserve system and the inflow of gold because of the war. Both of these are here to stay.

Warren M. Persons, professor of economics at Harvard, picks April as the likely month for business revival to begin. By that time present stocks of goods, not large now, will be lower still and demand will grow. Prices, he tells us, will not reach the pre-war level, and wages will somewhat tardily follow them downward. But passage of a soldiers' bonus bill and issue of government bonds to finance the payments would lead to credit and price inflation.

Elbert H. Gary, head of the Steel Corporation, urges caution, wisdom and courage. Employers who seek readjustment of labor should, he thinks, bear always in mind that the welfare of their employees is a matter of the first importance.

A. Barton Hepburn, head of the Chase National Bank of New York, says that a year ago everybody was helping inflation, blind to the inevitable fall of prices. Now people, going to the other extreme, are curtailing too much. He finds our sound financial condition a greatly alleviating feature of the situation.

A banker on the other side of the Continent, Frank B. Anderson, head of the Bank of California, San Francisco, names six things we need to bring back normal times: A revenue law that will reward the results of saving and punish spending; absorption of undigested Liberty bonds; giving to consumers the benefit of the drastic declines in raw materials; lower wages, minimized by enhanced efficiency; restoration of foreign trade; funding of the Government's debts on a long time basis.

That is a striking program, but quite within reach. And Mr. Anderson thinks it need not take long to accomplish, as there is a world of work to be done when material and labor get on a reasonable basis.

It is the expectation of Samuel H. Hedges, president of the Seattle Chamber of Commerce, that the present readjustment will induce people to come back to the land for the production of elemental necessities.

Wage cost, Daniel Willard, president of the Baltimore & Ohio, points out, includes not only actual rates of wages paid, but also the efficiency of the worker. He sees a reduction in wage cost already, through the enhanced efficiency of the worker, and he expects wages to show a downward trend to keep along with prices of materials.

Two editors contribute their opinions. Clarke Howell of the Atlanta Constitution and William C. Edgar of the Northwestern Miller, Minneapolis. Mr. Young expects to see a reaction under full headway by spring. Mr. Edgar is no less optimistic, if not so definite. He believes that America, which has met every emergency since 1914 with fine intelligence and spirit, is not going to be daunted by the last problem following the great war—the readjustment to normal. And it will be solved quicker, if every one, realizing that the days of high extravagance never faces the music courageously.

Samuel P. Colt, head of the United States Rubber Company, expects that current readjustments will in the next six months merge into substantially normal times.

These views of the situation and the prospect are reassuring because they are not the rosy dreams of inveterate optimists, but the considered opinions of men who are accustomed to look the facts in the face.

We still have some weeks of industrial and commercial unsteadiness ahead of us, but the upturn may be closer at hand than we think. It may come with all the suddenness that marked the downturn last spring. Everyone of us has the power to help recovery by acting with common sense.—Minneapolis Journal.

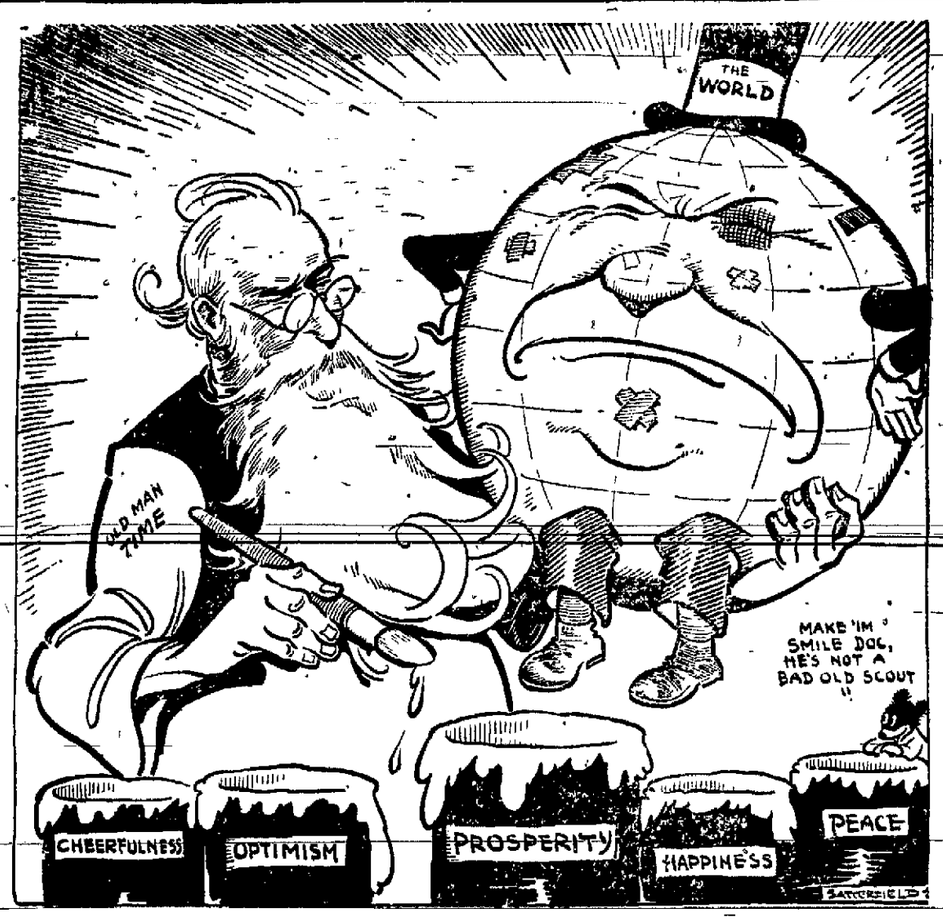
TOUCHING UP THE SORE SPOTS



Legislative Notes

Ad Leach of Fargo, formerly secretary of the Agricultural College and auditor of Cass, is in Bismarck frequenting legislative halls.

Former Representative L. D. Bailey of Mottit, has been in the city for several days. C. O. Kell and Frank Prater, the old members of the old Burleigh county delegation are planning on looking in at the legislative doings.

Senator H. P. Jacobson, of Mott, one a political leader in the western part of the state, is one of the bankers committee conferring on financial conditions with the state officials. Senator Jacobson was an independent floor leader the last senate session and his judgement on bills and other measures introduced was sought by all the senators.

Verbal thrusts were a special order in the house yesterday. Once Maddock of Montrail with an innocent glamor spread over his face, asked Watt of Cass, "Who are the Independents?" "A bunch of green farmers who don't know anything," was the flash like retore.

Shipley of Stark, one of the candidates for speaker, proved his qualifications yesterday when he ruled the house with an iron hand while he sat on the rostrum, Speaker Twitchell having taken the floor to take part in the debate on the audit resolution. Bell Patterson started a drive or two against him, but sat down satisfied.

Kitchen of Goldeh Valley, a farmer who is interested in a flour mill and several other mutual concerns, has a clear ringing voice that has been well tested out several times and carries its message vibrantly to every corner of the house chamber, including the gallery air pockets.

Larkin of Eddy, has been taking a prominent part in the debates in the house to date, rendering aggressive backfield support to the two forwards, Maddock of Montrail, and Patterson of Renville.

Although Chief Clerk Dawson has never had any experience in the legislature, third house or any other, he conducts his office with accuracy and dispatch, two necessary attributes of the work of a good head clerk. Dawson, who was formerly state commander of the American Legion, is a Beach attorney and a close friend of R. F. Gallagher, candidate in the Republican primaries of the Independent forces for attorney general, who was in the city the first of the week and looked after the interests of "Dad", as Dawson is known to his friends, while the various candidates for the honor were presenting their claims to the members.

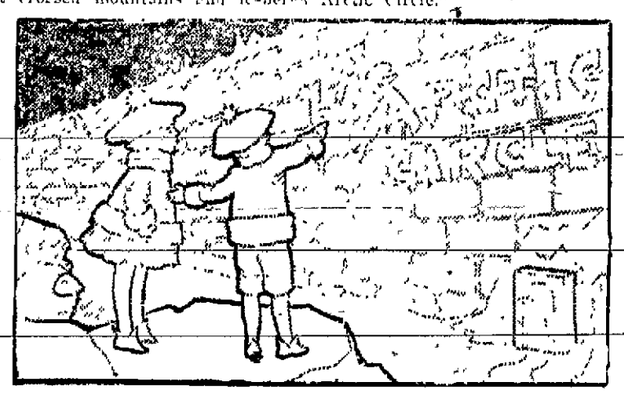
ADVENTURES OF THE TWINS

By Oliver Roberts Barton



The frozen letters spelled these words, "The Arctic Circle."

The Ice Wall

When the twins saw the high wall of ice towering up before them, it didn't frighten them a bit. Had they not crossed mountains and icebergs since leaving the North Pole, higher even than this?

"We shall just wish ourselves over," said Nancy reaching out for Nick's hand as they whizzed through the air in their Magical Shoes.

"Sure," said Nick. "Please Little Green Shoes will you kindly lift Nancy and me over the high wall?"

Up they went at once as easily as two little sparrows who shoot up without effort to the limbs of the tallest tree. But a curious thing happened. Just as they got to the top of the wall, up it shot again a hundred feet higher. "Oh!" cried Nancy. "We shall have to wish again!" Would they did at once. But no sooner had they reached the top than the same thing happened again.

"It must be magic!" cried Nick. "Oh I know what it is. It's the wicked fairy, the Bobadil Jinnu, trying to keep us from our errand. He's using the wall and he'll never let us over!"

Down they came to the ground, then to think things over and try to find a way out of their difficulty, that is, a way over or through the ice wall.

Just then the sun's rays shone on some letters that were frozen in the ice. They spelled these words, "The Arctic Circle."

"Oh!" cried Nick, reaching into the pocket of his little bear-skin coat for his golden key. "There must be a gate somewhere. This is the very wall Santa told us about."

"Here it is," called Nancy who'd gone searching. A little golden doorway in a golden archway swung open as Nick put the key into the lock. In an instant they were through and standing on the other side.

But another curious thing happened. The wall vanished instantly.

EVERETT TRUE — BY CONDO

BETTER HIGHWAYS

LINCOLN HIGHWAY IS WONDER

Ocean-to-Ocean Road Is No Longer an Unrealized Dream—Specifications Not Decided.

Seven years ago the idea of a transcontinental highway connecting New York with San Francisco, improved throughout its length and forming a backbone for a great national system of arterial roads, was only a dream in the minds of a few. Today the accomplishment of this great memorial road stretching from ocean to ocean is assured.

The Lincoln highway breathes the twentieth century. In years to come it will be adorned, as were the Roman roads, with statuary, landmarks, homes, hotels—a panorama of the achievements of man. It will be the path of advancement, a golden chain linking the Atlantic to the Pacific.

The motor truck is in its infancy and highway freight transportation as an adjunct to the railroad is only just beginning. But the Lincoln Highway association feels that it is well within its province to act as a clearing house for the best thought in the United States concerning the probable requirements of main arterial American highways in the next 20 years.

What will be the specifications for this wonder road? That has not yet been decided. The association realizes that it is undertaking a difficult problem, but it believes that it will have, in solving it, not only the interest and support of the American public, but the co-operation of the engineers and highway commissioners, and also the best technical experts the country affords.

Some of the finest concrete roads of the country are to be found in Michigan. These have a standard thickness at the sides of six and a half inches. About the best stretch of highway we have at present is the Lincoln highway from New York to Philadelphia. It is 96 miles long, and every day there passes over it an average of 2,000 tons. This road is eight inches deep at its center. This is the thickest surfacing in the United States today.

Whether the show road of the world will be of this thickness or deeper is under consideration. There is some thought of making it ten and a half inches at the sides and 12 inches at the middle, for it must be permanent. If the added advantage of this thickness overbalances the additional cost of construction, then the plans will call for this depth. It may be made even thicker than this. No one knows until the engineers have expressed their plans. The width must also be carefully thought out.

The association's plans do not stop with the construction of the road itself.

It has long been apparent that ultimately there must develop along America's main routes of heavy passenger and freight transportation, a new and distinctive type of accommodations catering particularly to such traffic and situated perhaps in the open country. Such accommodations, removed from the traffic and noise and necessarily higher prices of the congested centers, would provide for the tired and dusty tourists, or the drivers of freight-transport vehicles, convenient night stops where every effort would be made to cater to this particular type of patronage.

In conjunction with such accommodations arrangements would be provided for those tourists or travelers desiring to camp out. Free camp sites are even now being provided.—By Fred Gilman Jopp in Popular Science Monthly.

Forecasting the Weather.

A homely method of foretelling the weather is to drop carefully a lump of sugar into a cup of coffee. If the bubbles it causes suddenly rush from the center to the side of the cup, it is going to rain very hard. If the air bubbles assemble in the center and then pass to the side of the cup in a gentle way, you need not be prepared for what the weather forecast would call "some showers." But if the bubbles refuse to stir from the center of the cup, you may be sure of a fine day.

The Wardrobe

By AGNES G. BROGAN

(©, 1920, Western Newspaper Union.)

It was a fine old wardrobe of shining mahogany. The little lady who sat retrospectively before it touched its sides caressingly, as she peopled the upper room of the big, shabby house with memories. And now and again to the old lady's eyes came a whimsical light, and to her faded lips a smile. For back in the years in this same old house, which was her home, she saw a vision of children, romping up the wide stair in a game of hide-and-seek, and one little breathless maid entering this old room to elude her pursuer, had slipped into the wardrobe as a hiding place. But one gold-brown curl had caught in the wardrobe door and so, laughing and triumphant, the boy in chase found her—and kissed her as he drew her forth. Worthy Lane, rocking to and fro, laughed softly at the memory. He was such a daring boy, that David of long ago, and yet, withal, gentle and kind. What a small tyrant she had been, and how he had suffered through her caprices. There was the year that she was going away to school, and the big house was lighted from basement to attic, while she, fine and important in her crimson merino gown, had taken her old playfellow up to the guestroom during the evening to show him her new party frock. Here it hung, in the old polished wardrobe, fresh from Miss Paisley's needle; and David sighed as he praised it, saying:

"Some lucky fellow will fall in love with you in that frock, Worthy," and some lucky fellow had.

Rocking now, meditatively, Worthy wondered if Henry Lane had been, after all, triumphant in his choice. She had faithfully tried to be a good wife to Henry, and succeeded at least in keeping from him the knowledge of her own mistake. For, short as their life had been together, in the depths of the girl's miserable heart was always a haunting realization of love for another. She had never dreamed that her true love was David's—David surely was but playfellow, companion and friend.

It was only after her betrothal that the amazing consciousness dawned upon her—as she was showing David her wedding gown. The wardrobe had never borne a lovelier burden—the silvery brocade, gleamed in the lamplight, and David, white and silent, had turned away. It was not like him, she thought, disappointedly, to be unsympathetic. Then Worthy knew. She could almost see, now, the wedding brocade still hanging there in the twilight; but it was but a shadow vision, after all. The woman came abruptly to the matter-of-fact present. How much might she hope to get for the wardrobe at the antique shop? Worthy had gone to the nearby town to view an Old Ladies' home. She had saved a thousand dollars and residence in the home would be apparently the best provision of her old age. One may not live forever without friendly care. There were no younger descendants that she might turn to; so, in cheerful resignation, Worthy laid her plans.

Then, she rose briskly to light the massive old-fashioned chandelier—the gentleman of the antique shop had offered to stop on his homeward drive to inspect the wardrobe. He had his rough kindly, this courteous old man, to Worthy's request, and his keen, dark eyes noted the mended places in her gray gloves, while the wistfulness of the young already silvered him. He was surprised at his own suggestion of stopping at the house. He was an odd, gentle creature, this collector of antiques; it was known that the shop was not continued because of its sales value—the owner was independently rich, and as charitable as retiring.

When he stood before Worthy Lane's wardrobe his sharp eyes roved about the old room, coming back again wonderingly to rest on her face. In her excitement two young pink spots glowed in Worthy's cheeks and she put up a slim hand to brush back a vagrant white curl—the very ghost of the curl that had fastened itself long ago in the wardrobe door.

"I do believe," said the old man slowly, "and surely I cannot be mistaken, that this is Worthy Lane. I remember your home," he went on, as she stood making no reply.

"I remember the old wardrobe, and—" he laughed softly—"I remember you. I am David!"

Still Worthy could find no words.

"I supposed that you remained away. I did not know that you ever came back. Your husband—is dead?"

Then, seated in the room of memories, Worthy answered all his questioning—told him all that had been. And all at once it was not an old man who sat there in the room, nor a little white-haired lady, but just David, understanding and true, and Worthy, still sweet and fair.

"The Old Ladies' home will never know what it has missed, Worthy, dear," David said, "while you are making home at last—for me."

His Industry.

"There is my friend's dog busy ridding himself of fleas. How would you classify him as an industrial worker?"

"I should call him a hop picker."

Difference of Opinion.

HOPPE BRINGS UP SON TO BE CUE CHAMP

ONE'S KING NOW—OTHER MAY BE

HOPPE I HOPPE II

THE BILLIARD CHAMP AS A BABY

THE BILLIARD CHAMP'S OWN BABY BOY

Billiard Table to Be Baby's Playhouse

BY E. M. THIERRY

New York, Jan. 7. Willie Hoppe has declared a "closed season" on the billiard championship for the next 20 years or so.

Here's the reason: His son, Willie, Jr., who will be two years old next May, is being "brought up on a billiard table."

"I'm going to keep the billiard championship another 15 or 20 years," says Willie, Sr., "by that time my boy will be old enough to play for the title.

"All my hopes rest in the youngster. With his help we'll keep the championship in the family indefinitely."

Plans Baby's Career

Sounds boastful. But Hoppe is too modest to boast. It's merely his way of saying that his whole life is wrapped up in the game—that he thinks billiards, eats billiards, lives billiards and dreams billiards. He's in love with the game. And his ambition, which might have been satiated by holding the title for the past 16 years, has now been stimulated by his baby boy.

"I've a little girl nine years old," said Hoppe. "But it wasn't until Willie, Jr., came that I was filled with the idea of passing the championship along to him.

Early Teaching

"Of course, he'll not get it handed to him as a gift. He'll have to play for it and earn it. If he doesn't it won't be my fault. For just as soon as he's big enough to handle a cue say at eight or nine—his billiard education will begin.

"Even before then he will be taught to think about billiards and to know what the balkline game means—the scientific skill, the accuracy and keenness required, and the clean living and health upon which they depend.

"I was 18 when I won the championship. Now I'm just past 33. I hope to keep the title for 15 or 20 years perhaps longer. My greatest ambition will be satisfied then if my own son wins the championship from me. Then I will retire happy."

One Contender

All of which spikes any rumor that Hoppe is thinking of retiring now. Recently, he defended the title again, new rules providing for such a tournament annually. Just now he is starting on a tour of Canada, under the auspices of the Knights of Columbus, with Charles Peterson, the fancy player, as partner.

Only one man in the world looms as a possible contender for Hoppe's title, Edouard Horemans, the Belgian, recently arrived in this country.

Sticks to Balkline.

"I've been asked to play three cushion billiards and pocket billiards," said Hoppe. "I have played both at times, but never in championship competition. I prefer to stick to what I consider the more scientific balkline game. It takes years of practice to develop skill for balkline billiards, but a three-cushion champion can spring up almost over night.

"Yes, billiards is worth while financially. After 16 years my income is greater than ever. Upwards of $30,000 a year now.

Constant Practice.

Hoppe continues his old habits—no smoking, no drinking and a careful diet when in training. He plays in championship competitions or exhibitions only six months a year. But every year, except during two months' summer vacation, he puts in a regular daily period of practice at his home on West 95th street.

"To be a billiard champion," adds R. B. Benjamin, who manages Hoppe's tours, "a man has to love the game and work constantly and live a clean life. Hoppe does all of these and there's no limit save that of extreme old age or his youngster's success to his career as champion."

Hoppe, the king at work. He won the title when he was but 18 years old. Now at the age of 33 his crown sits as squarely on his head as ever.

The Insider Says

The biggest feller Jack Johnson will have to fight when he gets out of the Leavenworth prison is Kid Public Opinion.

Ty Cobb thinks some New York newspaper men are mind readers and poor ones at that. He denies alleged interviews with the Big Town boys in which they said he'd be as great a manager as he has been a ball player.

No matter how your putting is,
Or how far you muss your tee
It's all the same to caddy boys
For the gang must get its fee.

One golf statistician says that, according to his pencil, caddies in the United States drag down something like seven million silver disks annually.

Haverhill (Mass. High is further convinced that the East Techs of Cleveland, weren't the eastern scholastic football champs at all a-tall since Everett swung on 'em New Year day.

By comparative scores — which sometimes don't mean anything — Haverhill's heavy grid-machine could have bounced the Cleveland high schoolers for four goals' worth.

Haverhill rolled up a total of 707 points to their opponents' 37 during the 1920 campaign. If Everett and Haverhill cop next year they'll probably settle the argument that has been started.

Joe Jackson found when he went home
Cold shoulders were the styles,
But Fred McMullin's out in Cal
Basking in sunny smiles!

There is such a thing as locality sentiment on matters such as the Chicago baseball scandal. Jackson's boyhood friends in Savannah, Ga., turned against him while McMullin, his alleged partner in the game-fixing, went to Southern California, where fans cheer him every time he takes the field.

Babe Ruth makes more money than any other athlete, but he also loses more. A moving picture failure and the Cuban ponies have gyped the Bambino for $62,500, it is claimed.

Are You Studying Your Game?

Twenty years ago William T. Tilden, Jr., began to study tennis.

He is 27 now and the recognized master of them all.

Tilden is wonderful—as they say in tennis. Yet he is no marvel.

The fact that he has studied harder and played his game more sincere than others has only developed him higher.

Off the courts he was always figuring out new strokes and ways to correct flaws in those he already knew.

On the courts he applied the results of his study.

As a result he is credited with knowing more strokes than any other living player.

While others develop a set style of play Tilden's game is a mixture of them all.

His greatest asset is in doing the unexpected. No opponent can successfully plan how to meet his attack or defense.

During the past six months he has vanquished the champions of France, England, America and Australia.

Tilden will be called a wizard—a marvel—a super and other superlatives. But he isn't.

He is just an example of a fellow who stuck to his game, studied it to correct the flaws in it, played it sincerely and with all his heart.

Success will come to anyone who does likewise.

Are you studying the game?

HE OWES $1 A WORD

Brooklyn, Jan. 8—John Saheeby agreed to pay his wife ten dollars for every "bad word" he said. He soon owed two thousand. Wife had him arrested for hitting her. Judge paroled him so he could work out his cuss-word debt.

Stretch Out the Wrinkles.

A surgeon of Paris has made a woman of forty-nine look like a woman of twenty-five by making small incisions behind the ears and in the scalp and stretching the skin as you would stretch a carpet, and her new youthful beauty is expected to last for eight or ten years, if she doesn't smile or frown overy too much.

Robber Bees

If robber bees discover that a hive has lost its queen they march boldly into the forsaken colony, overpower the depressed and nerveless inhabitants and rifle of the honey bit by bit. These robbers rarely work. They are the adventurers of the family. To them it is foolish to fly from flower to flower for a bit of honey when I can be got so much more easily by going directly to another storehouse.

TOMMY GIBBONS

HARRY GREB

Tex Rickard knows a lot of ways to annoy New York fans.

He didn't make any mistake in signing up Tommy Gibbons of St. Paul and Harry Greb, Pittsburgher, favorite son, for a fifteen round decision bout at his Garden Wednesday night.

Gibbons put up a game but futile effort to wrest the heavyweight crown from Dempsey. Strength held on the heavy and cleared half a hundred.

Both are light heavyweights.

Greb has gone down to the middleweight poundage. In fact the Pittsburgher recently has made New York his home in order to be handy if Johnny Wilson should ever decide to defend his honors as a lighter.

Gibbons thinks that he can smoke out Wilson he will try to do a Robert Fitzsimmons and tackle Dempsey.

The St. Paul boy has had trouble in getting bookings for the past year. He tramped all over Europe in search of work to do but the most he got from Beckett was a "nothing-doing" salute.

Since he has been forced to pick up only small purses here and there.

At Peoria, Ill., he has drawn down $1000 several times, but in Milwaukee, St. Paul or New York he should be a $50,000 attraction.

If the Big Town folks don't see a ribbon cutting match between this pair it will be because the Pittsburg and St. Paul fans buy up all the seating accommodations and they can't get in.

Good Times Will Return In the Spring

As day follows night, the flood-tide follows ebb, so inevitably must the existing business depression some time come to an end and the inflooding tides of prosperity begin to rise. But what the anxious business man asks just now is, "When will the tide turn, when will the dawn break, when will the buyer cease from striking and the wheels of industry again begin to revolve?" To these questions, after a careful search of the daily and financial press, THE LITERARY DIGEST, this week, is at least able to give an answer from men who should know whereof they speak. Herbert Hoover, E. H. Gary, J. Ogden Armour, Francis H. Sisson, B. C. Forbes, Guy Emerson, Charles M. Schwab, Roger W. Babson, and Governor Harding of the Federal Reserve Board, are some of the men whose opinions are mentioned.

This article is of more than usual interest and value to the American public and constitutes a survey of business conditions and prospects that should hearten every reader.

HE'LL GET BACK IN RING WITH SELECT RASSLERS

Marin Plestina, long made the goat among heavyweight wrestlers, is about to get a chance to break back into the select circle.

His challenges have gone unanswered by Chaddock, Lewis, Stecher and Zbyszko for a long time. They didn't want any of his game.

But recently Stanislaus Zbyszko, who returned to this country from Poland last February, finds himself on the outside of the other big league grapplers. He, too, has sought matches in vain.

So the Pole has consented to meet Plestina. If Plestina should win from Zbyszko, the select circle will be compelled to give him a chance with them.

Plestina's neck has given him much publicity. The size of his collar is a number 22. He can slip it over his head without unfastening it.

MARIN PLESTINA

Bell Holds You Spellbound.

In the temple of Chionin, at Kyoto, Japan, is a wonderful bronze bell said to weigh 100 tons; and when its mellow boom is heard the pedestrian stands still and the workman pauses to listen, the vibrations being felt over a large area. It has no tongue, but the end of a wooden beam, suspended horizontally, swings against the brazen mass. There are only two larger bells in the world, that of Mindon Min in Burma and one at Moscow.

Dire Effect of Stuttering.

We, all of us, possess undiscovered gifts. Life's conflicts, especially to those suffering from speech defects, are so tremendous and severe that these gifts are often starved out. The few that have the supreme endurance to keep on and override their handicap to success pay a terrible price for their strain. Many a stutterer begins life as wholesome and optimistic as any of us, but turns crippled under his sufferings and breaks down nervously at the end.—Exchange.

Grease Spots.

When grease is spilled on a hardwood floor it can be hardened and scraped off if cold water is poured on. If it is not detected immediately, cover the grease spot with starch or powdered chalk, which will absorb most of the grease. It can then be washed off with hot soapsuds.

Folly Came Home to Him.

When Charles V abdicated his throne and retired to the monastery of St. Juste, he amused himself by trying to learn watchmaking. After some time he remarked one day: "What an egregious fool must I have been to have squandered so much blood and treasure in an absurd attempt to make men think alike, when I cannot even make a few watches keep time together."

To Raise House-Plants From Slips.

To grow a house plant from a slip, take a half-ripe branch and cut a slip three inches long. After taking off all leaves except the upper two, plant it in wet sand, exposing only half of the slip. The sand should be kept moist. When the roots begin to grow, transplant the slip into a pot with ordinary soil. Plants such as oleander and ivy will root in water.

NEW YORK EATS WHALE

New York, Jan. 8.—Fresh whale meat is now sold here at twenty cents a pound. It looks like horse meat, has a fishy flavor, and tastes like a combination of halibut and veal.
